Appendix
Dear students,

Welcome to Tsinghua University.

Since its founding back in 1911, Tsinghua University has had a focus on internationalization, and was one of the first Chinese universities to admit international students. In 2017, over 3,500 international students from more than 128 countries were enrolled at Tsinghua, who help promote cross-cultural exchange and create a more internationalized campus.

ISSC, established in 2016, provides international students and scholars with professionalized service for life and study matters at Tsinghua, including for visas, insurance, scholarships, study support, counselling services, internships and employment, alumni, accommodation, regulations and policies, and cultural exchange. By bringing together resources, holding cultural immersion activities, and supporting international student and scholar clubs and societies, ISSC aims to foster an enriching campus environment for international students and scholars at Tsinghua, and develop their cross-cultural understanding and global competence.

This Guide has been created by ISSC to provide you with useful information both before and after your arrival at Tsinghua. I hope you will find it helpful.

I, together with my colleagues at ICE and ISSC, look forward to greeting you on our beautiful campus to begin your Tsinghua journey. I wish you all the best in the pursuit of your educational and personal goals.

Dr. LI Jinliang
Dean of the Office of International Cooperation and Exchange

The Tsinghua campus, renowned for its beauty and historical significance, is situated on the site of the former imperial gardens of the Qing Dynasty, and is surrounded by a number of historical sites in north-west Beijing.

Tsinghua offers its students a superior learning, teaching and research environment. Its research and teaching facilities include one main library, six subject libraries, over 300 public classrooms and more than 300 laboratories and research institutes.

Tsinghua is among the top research universities in the world. It has fostered many outstanding scholars, successful entrepreneurs, and distinguished statesmen widely esteemed at home and abroad. Outstanding alumni include Nobel Prize winners Yang Zhenning and Li Zhengdao, statesmen such as President Xi Jinping, former President Hu Jintao, and former Premier Zhu Rongji.

Student life at Tsinghua extends far beyond academic courses. Athletics, performing arts, a vast array of clubs and societies, and diverse social activities not only complement a student’s studies at Tsinghua, but also offer wonderful opportunities for friendship and learning.
1 Important Documents

Before arriving at the university, please prepare the following documents:

1. Admission Notice (original and photocopy)
2. Visa Application for Study in China (JW202/201 Form) (original and photocopy)
3. Passport (original and photocopy). If passport has been renewed after application, be prepared to show both the old and new passport upon registration at Tsinghua. It is recommended to bring 8 recently taken passport-style photos (2 inches, with a white background), which may be required for school administrative formalities.
4. Students under 18 years old should provide a “China Guardian Certificate” (to be obtained once in China). Chinese name: 在华监护人公证书.
5. Highest diploma and degree certificate (original copy)
6. Foreigner Physical Examination Form. For students who have not completed the examination form, they can go to the Beijing International Travel Healthcare Center - Haidian branch to complete the examination. Refer to the Physical Examination Authentication section on page 12 of this Guide.

Note: In addition to the above documents, additional materials may be required for each individual depending on the degree or non-degree program. Refer to relevant notices received before entering the university.

2 Visa

According to related regulations, international students coming to study in China should apply for an X1 visa (for a study period of more than 180 days), or an X2 visa (for a study period of less than 180 days). Without the correct student visa, students will not be able to register at the university. Students holding an X1 visa should apply for a residence permit within 30 days after entering China.

International students coming to study in China should apply for a Chinese student visa at the Chinese Embassy or Consulate in their country of nationality or country of residence. Applying for a Chinese student visa requires supplying the original Admission Notice, valid passport, the Visa Application for Study in China (JW202/201 Form), and any additional documents requested by the Chinese Embassy or Consulate.

Visa Application

According to Chinese law, it is not possible to apply for a visa or change visas by entering Mainland China using a visa-free entry. Do not use a visa-free entry to enter into China.

1. For students applying for a visa from outside of China, please carefully research visa types, and read the description below:

a. X1 Visa: The X1 visa generally permits only one entry, and students must register at the university within 30 days after entry in order to apply for the required residence permit, otherwise it constitutes illegal residence. Since the university does not accept students registering in advance of the scheduled date, and it usually takes 3-5 working days to prepare the residence permit application, it is suggested that international students holding an X1 visa should have at least one week remaining on their visa before its expiry date at the time of registration at the university.

b. X2 Visa: The number of entries and the duration of stay permitted per entry are both indicated on the X2 visa. Once international students on an X2 visa enter the country, they should keep in mind the permitted duration of their stay on their visa and must register at the university within the time limit specified.

* Please note that entry into Mainland China from Hong Kong S.A.R., Macao S.A.R., or China Taiwan is considered as one entry.

2. Regarding visa collection: When picking up one’s passport containing the visa for China, please ensure that the Embassy or Consulate returns the original copy of the Admission Notice and the Visa Application for Study in China (JW202/201 Form). These are important and required documents for international students for their study, residence permit application and other procedures whilst in China.

Passport Nationality Used at Registration

1. The nationality of the passport used by the international student when registering at the university should be consistent with the nationality listed when applying to study at the university, otherwise they will not be able to register.

2. For international students who have both foreign nationality and a residence identity from Hong Kong, Macao or China Taiwan, if they applied to the university under their foreign nationality they must not register at the university using travel documents for Hong Kong, Macao and China Taiwan (such as the Mainland Travel Permit for Hong Kong and Macao Residents and the Mainland Travel Permit for Taiwan Residents).

Travel Planning

The university arranges specific registration dates (usually in late August) for all international students to register at the university. Advance registration is not available. International students whose visa, stay permit or residence permit has expired or will expire in too short a time to go through the registration formalities will not be permitted to register at the university. Therefore, travel planning is essential. Please do not enter into China too early in advance before the designated university registration period to avoid the risk of the entry visa expiring before registration, which will lead to an inability to register at the university and other difficulties.

In addition, after registration, international students applying for a residence permit will be without their passport for approximately 3-4 weeks while it is being processed. International students holding an X2 visa, who after registration need to apply for an extension or increase of the number of entries on their visa, will be without their passport for approximately 3-4 weeks.
Rejection of Admission Offer
If an international student decides to renounce their admission offer from the university, he or she may not use the documents issued by the university to apply for a visa, nor use that visa to enter China. According to Chinese government regulations, after the university registration period has concluded, the university will report all unregistered international students to the Division of Exit and Entry Administration of the Beijing Public Security Bureau.

If a student holds a visa to study in China but does not register at the university they have been admitted to, the visa may be cancelled and the individual will be penalized for making an illegal stay.

Visa Breaches and Penalties
It is illegal to stay in China after a visa, stay permit or residence permit has expired. Those committing such an offense will be subject to a fine of 500 RMB per day and will face detainment or deportation.

3 Physical Examination
In order to apply for a residence permit after registration, holders of the X1 visa are required to complete the Foreigner Physical Examination Form. Below are the two options for how the physical examination can be completed.

1. Complete the Foreigner Physical Examination in home country
The Foreigner Physical Examination Form is included in the admission package that will be sent to the students in the mail prior to arrival at the university. The student can take the form to a hospital or clinic in their home country. The form should be written, signed and stamped by the doctor conducting the examination. The original form must then be brought to China (including the original blood test reports) and presented at the Beijing International Travel Healthcare Center - Haidian branch for authentication. The student will then receive a Physical Examination Report after authentication is approved. If the health documents provided do not meet the Beijing International Travel Healthcare Center's standards, the student must redo the health examination at the Beijing International Travel Healthcare Center.

2. Complete the Foreigner Physical Examination after arrival in Beijing
After arriving in China, students can undergo the physical examination at the Beijing International Travel Healthcare Center - Haidian branch to obtain the Physical Examination Report. More information can be found by referring to the Physical Examination Authentication section, on page 12 of this Guide.

4 Converting Money

Exchanging Foreign Currency
In China, only banks are authorized to provide legal exchange services of foreign currencies. Before trying to exchange foreign currency, check with bank service personnel whether the bank is able to provide the exchange service for the required foreign currency. Sometimes it is necessary to make an appointment in advance (usually one working day in advance). Non-Chinese citizens can exchange no more than 500 US dollars of foreign currency per day (for specific information, please consult the bank). Therefore, planning ahead is essential if a large amount of foreign currency is required to be exchanged.

A valid passport is required to be presented at the bank when exchanging foreign currency. Be mindful that the exchange rate of different banks is different, and that the exchange rate fluctuates in real time throughout the day.

Wire Transfers
As banks require several days to complete a wire transfer, it is recommended that students bring a sufficient amount of cash with them to China to pay for the first month's living expenses.

Cash Withdrawal Limit
Banks impose a daily withdrawal limit on credit and debit cards. Students should confirm the daily limit of their personal credit card/debit card within China with their bank before departure.
5 What to Bring

For clothing, be aware of seasonal changes in Beijing’s weather. The spring and autumn seasons in Beijing are relatively short in duration. Refer to the Climate section on page 29 of this Guide for more details. For shoes, running shoes and sandals should be brought.

It is recommended that students bring often-used personal health and sanitary items such as cold and flu and stomach medicine, face towel, pillowcase, low power hair dryer and basic toiletries.

Bring any personal study items such as a laptop computer, and an electronic translation dictionary. Pens and other items can be bought at supermarkets on-campus.

Power plug adaptors: Bring both the three-prong type and two-prong type adaptors (Chinese power voltage is 220V).

6 Accommodation

Due to the limited amount of accommodation available on campus, students should reserve a dormitory in advance. For more information, please refer to the Instructions for Tsinghua University International Students Dormitory Room Booking Application System (included in the admission package). For those who could not reserve accommodation on-campus, they will need to make their own housing arrangements off campus. Students who will receive the Chinese Government Scholarship (full scholarship) will automatically be reserved a room on campus, and thus do not need to reserve a room themselves.

On-Campus Living

The Tsinghua University International Student Apartments are the Zijing Apartment Buildings 19-23. There are three different room arrangements: double rooms, single rooms and “AB” rooms (with separate bedrooms and a common bathroom). Double rooms are 40 RMB per day and the single and “AB” rooms are 80 RMB per day.

The dormitories are each equipped with a desk, bed and closet. A mattress, quilt, pillow and bed linen are also provided. There are specific times for the use of hot water for showering in the dormitories, which are as follows: 7:00am - 2:00pm and 5:00pm - 12:00am each day. Each year, the air conditioning system for the buildings is turned on between June 1st and September 30th, and the heating system is turned on between November 15th and March 15th. Each building has its own study room, which can be used by students. Buildings 21-23 have public kitchen spaces, but students have to provide their own cooking equipment and utensils. All buildings are equipped with public washing machines, and some buildings also have dryers.

According to school regulations, the Zijing Apartment Buildings 19-23 are for international students. Friends or family members are allowed to visit, but they must first register at the reception desk on the ground floor of the building. Guests are not permitted to stay overnight, and can visit between the hours of 8:00am and 11:00pm.

Students staying in the dormitories must abide by the dormitory rules and regulations stipulated in the Tsinghua University Administrative Measures for International Student Dormitory Accommodation, which states that smoking indoors, the charging of electric vehicle batteries (including scooters), owning candles, using electric blankets or rice cookers are strictly prohibited.

Off-Campus Living

Due to the limited amount of on-campus accommodation, some students will need to find accommodation off campus. Students who do not have a dormitory room reserved on campus can choose to rent an apartment off campus. Before moving in to any off-campus accommodation, it should be checked whether the landlord can provide the documentation required for the issuing of a Registration Form of Temporary Residence (临时住宿登记表).

There are many housing agencies located near the Tsinghua campus. Their services and prices offered should be compared in advance. Below are some factors to be aware of when looking for off-campus accommodation:

1. Choose a legal, reputable housing agency. Research online or through the State Administration for Industry and Commerce (中国工商行政管理机关) for the credentials and qualifications of housing agents and inquire with friends or others about their experiences using housing agents in the area.

2. Do not simply trust the introduction given by the housing agent. Make sure to inspect the apartment room, its facilities and the surrounding area in person.

3. Check and verify the landlord’s credentials and property credentials, including whether the property has the right to be rented out. If signing a lease through a third-party agent, check the agency agreement and understand the agency’s terms and conditions and their right to sign the contract.

4. Carefully read through the conditions outlined in the rental contract and check whether the rights and obligations of the two parties are fair. Take note of whether the responsibility for a specific breach of contract is clearly defined and ensure that all commitments are written and signed off by the agent in the contract, not simply conveyed by spoken word.

5. Pay attention and check through the information provided in receipts given, including the deposit amount and rental fee, and keep safe official documents and payment receipts. Note that in Chinese, one should pay attention to the contract and invoices when the term “dingjin” is used, as there are two types of “dingjin” in Chinese. The first is “定金” (dìngjīn), which is a type of deposit/advance payment that you can get back should you choose to exit out of the contract, and the second is “订金” (dìngjīn), which is a type of deposit/advance payment that you cannot get back once paid.

6. Do not pay any deposit or make a payment until a full agreement is formally reached.

7. After signing the contract, go to the local police station to apply for the Registration Form of Temporary Residence.

1 Getting to Tsinghua

For students who have not been to Beijing before, taking a taxi from Beijing Capital Airport to Tsinghua is the most convenient option. There are official taxi ranks at the airport. Official taxis have standard markings and registration numbers. Be sure to only take official taxis leaving from the designated taxi ranks and do not take unlicensed taxis or private cars. The taxi fee from Beijing Capital Airport to Tsinghua University should be around 150 RMB (including a 10 RMB highway toll fee). Once in the taxi, tell the driver that you would like to go to the north-east gate of Tsinghua University, which in Chinese is: 我要到清华大学东北门的紫荆公寓. Remember to ask for a receipt from the taxi driver upon your arrival. Once inside the campus, refer to the Campus Map section, which can be found on page 32 of this Guide.

In addition, the Beijing Capital Airport offers an express train service, which is an affordable and reliable option for getting into the city. The express train has four stops: Terminal 2 and Terminal 3 at the airport, and Dongzhimen and Sanyuanqiao in downtown Beijing. The running time for the trains departing from Terminal 2 is 6:35am to 11:10pm daily. The running time for the train departing from Terminal 3 is 6:20am to 10:50pm daily. A one-way ticket costs 25 RMB. Both Sanyuanqiao and Dongzhimen subway stations are directly assessable from the airport transfer stop. To get to Tsinghua using the express train, the quickest way is to get off at Sanyuanqiao station, take subway line 10 for nine stops to Zhichunlu (知春路) station and transfer to line 13. Take line 13 one stop to Wudaokou (五道口) station. Once at Wudaokou, go out through exit A and take bus 549 two stops to Dashiqiao (大石桥) which brings you to the north-east gate of Tsinghua University.

The airport also has bus services heading downtown. The closest route to Tsinghua University is the Zhongguancun route, which stops at the Tsinghua Science Park (清华科技园). The one-way bus ticket costs roughly 30 RMB and starts service at 6:50am and concludes at 1:00am. After getting off at Tsinghua Science Park, take a taxi to the Tsinghua University north-east gate (approximately 15 RMB). More information can be found through the official Beijing Capital Airport website: http://en.bcia.com.cn.

2 Housing Arrangements

On-Campus Housing: Dormitory Check-in

For students whose dormitory application is successful, they must check-in during the specified time as stated in the admission package.

Students should check-in at the Service Desk on the 1st floor of Zijing Apartment Building 19 (紫荆公寓19号楼一层总服务台). Upon successfully checking-in, students will receive an official paper slip titled: Registration Form of Temporary Residence.
Please note that the following documents are required when checking in:

- Admission Notice
- Original passport

Payment:

- The entire payment sum for a minimum of one academic semester's housing fee, as well as an additional 200 RMB deposit is required.
- Payment methods accepted: Cash, Mainland Chinese bank cards, overseas Visa/MasterCard/American Express/JCB credit cards.

In order to get their deposit back, students should keep their deposit receipt in a safe location during their stay and present it when checking-out.

For detailed information on check-in times, please refer to the materials provided in the admission package.

Off-Campus Housing: Obtaining a Registration Form of Temporary Residence

Students who live off-campus must, within 24 hours of arrival in China, take their passport and go with their landlord to register at their local police station where they will obtain an official paper slip titled: Registration Form of Temporary Residence (临时住宿登记表).

When a student's visa type is changed/extended, or when the student re-enters China from a trip abroad, they must re-register at the police station and obtain a new Registration Form of Temporary Residence. In these cases, the student can re-register at the police station themselves, without the presence of their landlord, as long as they bring their current Registration Form of Temporary Residence and their passport. For detailed information and specific requirements for the processing of the Registration Form of Temporary Residence, students should check with their local police station.

If staying in a hotel, when checking-in, confirm with the reception desk whether they can provide a Registration Form of Temporary Residence.

Local Sim Card

There are currently three Chinese mobile service providers that have branches located on the Tsinghua University campus:

China Mobile
Two branches; Located at C Building and at Zhaolanyuan (C 楼, 照澜院)

China Unicom
Located close to Teaching Building 5 (五教附近)

China Telecom
Located at Zhaolanyuan (照澜院)

When purchasing a Chinese SIM card, students must bring along the following:

- Original passport
- RMB in cash

* Notes:

- The national code for China is 86, and the Beijing telephone area code is 010.
- After purchasing a Chinese SIM card, students should memorize their new Mainland Chinese phone number.
- A Mainland Chinese mobile phone number is required in order to apply for a Chinese bank card.

University Registration

For specific details on the student registration process, refer to materials provided in the admissions package.
5 Bank Card

After arriving at Tsinghua, new students must apply for a Bank of China bank account to obtain a bank card, which will then be linked to their student IC card. Once prepaid with money from the bank card, the student IC card can be used at canteens, libraries, computer labs, supermarkets, and to make other payments. Additionally, scholarship funds and other types of financial stipends, subsidies or reimbursements will be deposited via this bank card account.

In order to better settle-in and make use of their IC card payment functions, students are highly encouraged to apply for a Bank of China bank account as soon as possible. The Bank of China can be found on the Tsinghua campus, on the 1st floor of the Zijing Student Service Centre (C Building), approximately 300 meters west of the international student dormitories. During the registration period, Bank of China staff will be on-site to receive materials for the bank account application.

6 Student IC Card

Purpose of the Student IC Card

Student IC cards serve as both student identification cards, as well as a form of electronic payment. IC cards can only be used by its original owner, and may not be transferred or borrowed by other people. IC cards can be used on campus to borrow library books, pay for food, enter the campus, use campus computer labs, pay for Internet access, use the campus hospital, and sign-in for campus events and lectures.

Obtaining a Student IC Card

New students can receive their ready-made student IC card directly from their school or department on the day of registration.

If issues arise with the student photograph and the student IC card is not ready for collection from their school or department, the student can obtain their IC card onsite during registration day by bringing their Admission Notice to the IC card photo-taking area in the Comprehensive Gymnasium to get their photo taken.

Using the Student IC Card

- Password
  The IC card's initial pre-set password is the last six digits of the student's passport number. Any non-digit numbers should be replaced by a “0”.

- Topping up/recharging the IC card
  a. Using IC card self-service machines: Before being able to top up their IC card using these machines, students must have a Bank of China bank card, which has been applied for and linked to their IC card at the Bank of China branch in the Zijing Student Service Center (C Building).

  Students can recharge their IC card at the IC card self-service machines, known in Chinese as 圈存服务机 or 自助查询机, by transferring money from their bank account to their IC card, known in Chinese as 圈存.

  b. Using Alipay: Students can open the Alipay app, click on Campus Life > Campus IC card (校园一卡通) to initiate the transfer. Then, students should bring the IC card to an IC card self-service machine (to either of these types of machines: 自助领款机 or 自助查询机) to complete the recharge.

- Replacing a lost IC card
  If an IC card is lost or damaged, students may arrange for a card replacement at the Registration Center at Teaching Building 3 or at a self-service machine (自助一体机). Please note that these machines are different from the two other types of machines previously mentioned.

  The self-service machines are located at:
  - Entrance of the Registration Center at Teaching Building 3, (三教三段一楼门厅)
  - The Student Registration Center in Room 102 of Zijing Student Service Center (C Building), (紫荆学生公寓 C 楼 102注册中心服务大厅)

* For specific management regulations and usage, please refer to the “Campus IC Card User Guidebooks”, available on the http://its.tsinghua.edu.cn website, by clicking “Student Services Guidebooks” (学生服务指南), then clicking the “Campus IC Card” (校园一卡通栏目) section, and then click “User Guidebook” (使用指南), which will open to a page with the English guidebook linked, called: User’s Manual for Tunicard.
Internet Services

The standard internet service provided for students is free, which includes a dynamic IPv4 address, 3 maximum simultaneous Internet connections, 1 email address and a 25 GB data cap per month. After exceeding 25 GB of data, the standard fee rate is 2 RMB per additional GB.

Topping up/recharging internet account

1. In-person: Students can recharge their internet account in Room A128 of the Lee Shau Kee Science and Technology Building, (李兆基科技大楼 A128), Monday to Friday from 1:00pm - 4:00pm. Currently, only cash is accepted.

2. Online: Students can recharge their internet account online by logging onto http://usereg.tsinghua.edu.cn. On the left-hand menu, click on “Self-Payment” (自助缴费). Students can then complete the payment with mobile payment applications such as Alipay or WeChat Pay.

3. IC card self-service machines: Students can recharge their internet account by logging into an IC card self-service machine, selecting the “Self-Service Payment” (自助缴费) option, and transferring money from their IC card to their internet account. These machines can be found across campus, including at the entrance of canteens, Teaching Building 6, libraries, the campus hospital and various laboratories.

4. On WeChat: Using the Tsinghua University Official Information Services WeChat Platform, students can go on to the “Internet Services” (网络服务) page to top up/recharge their internet account by using WeChat Pay.

Internet Account

New students will receive an envelope with details on how to activate their personal internet account from their respective school or department (if undertaking a degree program) or from the non-academic programs section of the Academic Affairs Office (if undertaking a non-degree program). Students can then log into the identity authentication website (http://id.tsinghua.edu.cn) to activate their internet account. After activating their account, receiving their account login and password information, they can login via Wi-Fi or wired connection and access the internet.

If students encounter any difficulties when activating their account, they can go to the Information Technology Service Center, or contact them via the number below.

Information Technology Service Center

Address: Room A128, Lee Shau Kee Science and Technology Building, (李兆基科技大楼 A128)

Opening hours: Monday to Friday; 8:00am – 12:00pm, 1:00pm– 5:00pm

Contact number: 62784859 / 62771940

Accessing the Internet

Once a student’s internet account has been successfully activated, the student may access the internet via LAN ports located in their dormitory room and/or wireless networks accessible throughout the entire campus (Wi-Fi network name: Tsinghua or Tsinghua 5G). Every dormitory room has one or two LAN port(s).

Once connected to the internet via a LAN port or wireless network, students can begin browsing the internet by launching their web browser and logging in to the internet at http://net.tsinghua.edu.cn. When going offline, students can click “Disconnect” to completely disconnect from the network to prevent unnecessary data consumption.

Note that browsing Tsinghua University websites is free-of-charge, and does not consume any data; in this case, students may choose to de-select “Browse Off-Campus Networks” (访问校外网络) when logging onto the Internet.

Students can log into http://usereg.tsinghua.edu.cn to manage their internet account (including to manually disconnect a separate device from the Internet, check their current internet balance, or view other account information).

Finally, students can directly download applications and manage Tsinghua Internet Services through http://usereg.tsinghua.edu.cn or http://its.tsinghua.edu.cn.

Campus Computer Labs

All Tsinghua teaching staff and students can access campus computer labs, which are located near the north-west entrance of the Main Building (enter through the terrace). These computer labs are open every day from 8:00am to 10:00pm. To use a computer the rate is 1 RMB/hour, and student IC cards are accepted as a method of payment. The service phone for the computer lab is: 62782820.
8 Student Email Account

After completing the student registration process, each student will be given a personal Tsinghua University student email account (i.e. “studentaccountname@mails.tsinghua.edu.cn”). Once the student receives their personal Tsinghua student account name and password, they will be able to login to the Tsinghua email system (https://mails.tsinghua.edu.cn).

9 Physical Examination Authentication

International students who are admitted to Tsinghua must submit a certified Physical Examination Report before they can apply for the required Residence Permit.

Before coming to China:

1. If the physical examination has already been completed in the international student’s own country:
   Upon arriving in China, the student must present the original physical examination form (including the original blood test reports) to the Beijing International Travel Healthcare Center - Haidian branch, to have their health documents verified and approved. If the health documents provided do not meet the Beijing International Travel Healthcare Center's standards, then the student must redo the health examination at the Beijing International Travel Healthcare Center.

2. If a physical examination has not been completed in the international student’s own country:

11 Additional Information

WeChat account

WeChat is an integral part of daily life in China. For communicating with friends, classmates, and learning about events and news, WeChat is a very useful social network platform. WeChat also has a wallet function where payments can be made by linking the WeChat account to one's own Chinese bank account. After downloading the WeChat phone app and registering using one's phone number, follow the steps to set up a WeChat account. Please note, do not add strangers as friends on WeChat.
Food and Drink

Drinking Water

Tap water is not suitable for drinking in China. Large bottles of water can be purchased at the supermarket, or for convenience many people will opt to order water tanks, that can be replaced with a new tank once empty. These tanks sit on a dispenser base that when plugged in can also produce hot water. Before selecting, it is recommended to first become familiar with nearby water tank supply companies to learn of their basic prices. A single water tank should cost around 20 RMB and the deposit should be roughly 50 RMB. A water tank dispenser can be purchased for an additional fee. For students living on campus, inquiries or requests for help with ordering water tanks can be directed to student dormitory reception staff.

On-Campus Dining

Tsinghua has a large number of canteens that serve a wide variety of dishes and conform to a high level of food safety standards. Meals are provided for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Setting-up, Activating, Re-charging and Replacing Canteen Cards

Student IC cards are the method of payment accepted at campus canteens (apart from at restaurant-style dining areas where cash can be used). For information on how to re-charge student IC cards, refer to the Student IC Card section on page 14 of this Guide. Normally, most canteens will have a re-charge machine just inside the canteen entrance.

The re-charge and payment system for non-degree program students is different; please consult with one’s academic program officer for specific information.

Off-Campus Canteens

In the nearby Wudaokou area there is a wide variety of restaurants and cuisines available including Western, Korean, Japanese, along with different Chinese cuisines. Fast food chains such as McDonalds, KFC, Pizza Hut and Yoshinoya are also available.

When eating out, pay attention to food safety. Before dining out in China, many people first check reviews of restaurants by using the website Dazhong Dianping (大众点评): http://www.dianping.com, which also has a mobile app version. Dazhong Dianping provides a vast array of reviews and information, including for dining, shopping, leisure and entertainment.

Food Delivery

Many restaurants offer delivery services, which can be used via third party apps or by calling the restaurant directly. Food ordered on food delivery apps can be paid for using WeChat, Alipay or via bank card. Most apps require advance mobile payment before the food is delivered. During peak hours, food should be ordered in advance to avoid delay. The standard wait-time for deliveries is between 30 minutes and 1 hour. When the food delivery has arrived, the delivery worker will call the mobile number that was provided when the order was made.
2 Shopping

Online Shopping

Online shopping is very convenient and efficient in China. Payment can be made using Alipay or a Chinese bank card (when applying for a bank card, ask for the option of online purchases to be allowed). Some businesses will also accept payment upon delivery. When making purchases online by using Alipay or a bank card, be very mindful of one’s personal information and privacy.

Transportation

Electric Vehicles

Some students choose to purchase electric vehicles (including scooters) to get around campus. However, in recent years several accidents have occurred on campus with the batteries of electric vehicles setting alight whilst charging and causing injuries, life threatening situations and damage to property. No matter the brand and quality, no electric vehicle battery can be considered completely safe. In order to maintain the safety of students and their property, and uphold a safe living environment for all, Tsinghua University prohibits students from bringing electric vehicle batteries indoors to be charged, including in student dormitories, teaching buildings, laboratories and activity centers. Therefore, to promote campus safety, it is recommended that students do not buy or use electric vehicles on campus, and abide by the regulations in place.

Bicycles

Most Tsinghua students get around campus using bicycles. A new bicycle costs roughly 200–500 RMB, with the price depending on the type and quality of the bicycle. Many students opt to purchase second hand bicycles on campus, which usually cost no more than 150 RMB. There are many small bicycle repair shops located on campus, with free tire pumping and seat adjustment services.

Bike Sharing

Share bikes are a very popular and affordable mode of transport in Beijing, and can also be found on campus. To start using a share bike, download the company's mobile app by scanning the QR code on the bike using a phone. The two biggest share bike companies in China are the yellow colored Ofo (小黄车 ) and the orange colored Mobike (摩拜). After registering on the share bike company's app and paying a deposit, the bikes can be unlocked and used. When non-Chinese citizens register, they will need to provide their passport information.

All students may enter freely and borrow books from these libraries with their student IC card.

The six specialized libraries are the Management Library, the Architecture Library, the Law Library, the Humanities Library, the Fine Arts Library and the Finance Library. These libraries focus on providing books related to different disciplines and are mainly intended to be used by students studying the related discipline.

Among these specialized libraries, the Humanities Library and the Finance Library have no restrictions regarding the amount of books that may be borrowed. For all other specialized libraries – the Management Library, the Law Library, the Architecture Library and the Fine Arts Library – students that do not belong to the related department may not borrow out more than two books at one time.

In order to ensure personal safety and of one’s belongings, all international students should keep in mind the following points whilst studying on campus.

Protecting oneself against common safety issues

- Students should ensure the safety of their personal belongings. Do not carry around large amounts of money. Take appropriate care of important items such as passports, admission notices, phones, laptops and wallets.

- Be aware of telecommunications fraud. Do not give information to unknown people by phone, text, WeChat or online. Do not transfer money or write checks to unknown accounts or individuals.

- Pay attention to information safety. Do not carelessly disclose one’s personal information. If necessary, the police can be contacted via phone by calling 110.

Important points to note:

Before receiving medical treatment, first call 4008105119, extension 1, to check the details of medical service coverage.

Proof, documentation, and certificates of accidents must be provided as evidence (for example a traffic accident certification issued by the relevant transport office).

When providing bank details, the bank account name, account number and banking branch that the account was opened at must be provided.
Paying attention to traffic safety and obeying traffic regulations

- Do not ride in unlicensed vehicles, or with unfamiliar individuals.

- The university does not encourage students or parents to drive cars into the university. Also, students are not permitted to apply for a motorized vehicle pass in campus. Motorized vehicles are forbidden from entering the student dormitory areas. The university promotes the use of green transport and does not recommend students to purchase electric vehicles (including scooters).

The primary mode of on-campus transportation is by bicycle (either personal bicycles or shared bikes). Bicycles should be locked after use. When walking or cycling on campus, please use the pavement or lanes for non-motorized vehicles. Do not ride in a dangerous manner, such as riding the wrong way down a roadway, speeding, or turning without signaling.

Awareness of dormitory safety and prevention of theft or fire

- Do not leave large amounts of cash; student IC card; keys or other important and valuable objects out in one’s room. Either keep them safely locked away or on one’s person.

- Obey dormitory regulations. When leaving the student dormitory room or resting inside the dormitory, lock the windows and door and do not let others stay in the room. When entering a dormitory building, make sure that others do not sneak in behind. Take an active role to prevent the subleasing of dormitory rooms by reporting such situations to the building staff or security staff.

- Be careful when using electricity inside the dormitory. The connecting, disconnecting, or pulling of electrical wires without permission is strictly forbidden. It is also forbidden to use electrical devices that go against regulations, as well as open flames such as candles or mosquito-repellant incense. Smoking in the dormitories is forbidden. Take care to prevent any potential fires from occurring. Become familiar with dormitory emergency exits and evacuation routes. When there is a fire, promptly raise the alarm and exit the building.

Avoiding injuries whilst exercising

- Avoid strenuous exercise and stay hydrated. Rest when feeling tired, hungry or uncomfortable.

- When exercising, dress according to the season and time of day.

- Those with illnesses should choose exercise methods that suit their physical condition.

- To avoid injury, do warm-up exercises beforehand and recovery exercises afterwards. Choose suitable exercise equipment.

- If one is injured during exercise, stop exercising and rest sufficiently. Recovery exercises should be performed until the injury heals. If necessary, see a doctor for diagnosis and treatment.

Staying safe while shopping online

- When choosing a specific online shopping website, first compare information such as volume of trade and customer reviews. Businesses that have an offline-store or a seven-day returns policy can better guarantee customer rights and are more reliable.

- Use third-party payment platforms to minimize the risk of transaction issues. Keep hold of proof of transactions, such as records of communication, delivery numbers and evidence of payments.

- After receiving the purchased item, open and inspect the package immediately. If the product is not the same as was advertised or there is a problem with its quality, the recipient has the right to reject the delivery. If there is the option, do not click “confirm delivery” (确认收货) if the item has not yet arrived or is unsatisfactory.

* Note: Most of the information in this section is from the Tsinghua University’s Student Safety Handbook.
Climate

The four seasons in Beijing are generally as follows.

Spring: Weather is pleasant, temperatures between 0°C and 26°C (32°F and 79°F)
Summer: Hot and humid, temperatures between 18°C and 35°C (66°F and 95°F)
Autumn: Cool with occasional rain, temperatures between 0°C and 26°C (32°F and 79°F)
Winter: Cold, dry and windy, temperatures between -8°C and 5°C (16°F and 41°F)

In the north of China, most public buildings will be heated between mid-November and mid-March. Buildings will often open their windows during winter to maintain a healthy level of air circulation.

Transportation

Taxis

Taxis are commonly seen in China. Licensed taxis are normally of the same design and should have the taxi company logo displayed. Different cities have different starting prices, but all are relatively affordable. Be careful not to ride in unlicensed taxis. Check the taxi company, driver and vehicle information (usually posted above the front passenger seat) and check whether there is a taxi meter fitted and in operation (in Chinese: 打表计费).

- Taxi fare fee

The standard taxi fare is 2.30 RMB per kilometer. The flag-down starting rate is 13 RMB (within the first 3 kilometers). The taxi fare fee may be a slightly higher rate when in traffic jams and during evenings.

- Confirming that a taxi is a licensed taxi

When taking a taxi, first check the car license plate. Licensed taxis in Beijing should all have a car license plate beginning with the letter B. Always ask for the receipt when getting out of the taxi.

Subway and Light Rail Network

The Beijing Subway and Light Rail Network (apart from the airport express train) is a highly connected transportation network. Prices depend on the distance travelled and range from 3 to 7 RMB per journey. Tickets can be purchased at the ticket window or by using the automatic machines found at all subway stations. A rechargeable Beijing transportation card can also be purchased, which is used by most people who frequently travel via public transport.
Bus Network
The bus network in Beijing is a very affordable method of transportation, with fees starting from 1 RMB using the Beijing transportation card (the same one used for the subway system), or from 2 RMB if paying in cash. The west, south and north-east gates of Tsinghua all have bus stops close-by. The nearest bus stop to the student dormitories is the stop located by the north-east gate, where bus number 549 travels to the nearby areas of Wudaokou and Zhongguancun. For more information, visit: http://www.bjbus.com.

Wudaokou and Surrounds
The Wudaokou area is a student-hub, as it is located near several universities, including Tsinghua. The busiest and most bustling part of Wudaokou is centered on either side of the Wudaokou subway station. Traffic jams are common, especially during peak hour and thus attention should be paid to personal safety.

The Wudaokou area has an international atmosphere and is filled with shops, restaurants, coffee shops and bars. The main department store in Wudaokou, known as the U Center, is home to clothing and lifestyle stores, a pharmacy and the BHG supermarket on the basement floor housing many international products. Nearby, there is also D-Mart - a smaller international supermarket, and Lotus supermarket - a large local supermarket chain.

Nearby the Wudaokou subway station are bus stops that can take you back to the north-east gate of Tsinghua University (bus number 549) and several buses going in the direction of nearby Peking University and Zhongguancun, Beijing's technology hub.

Due to its close proximity to Tsinghua University, many students living off campus choose to live in apartment blocks located in Wudaokou. Apart from Wudaokou, there is also a nearby area called Liudaokou (六道口), where many students also choose to live. It has its own subway station of the same name on line 15, the Golden Towers shopping market, and a large variety of Chinese restaurants.

Travel
Beijing
Beijing has a rich cultural history, the reason for which many visitors come to the city. Famous sights in Beijing include Tiananmen Square, the Forbidden City, the National Museum and the Museum of Science and Technology. There is also the Bird's Nest and Water Cube, where the 2008 Beijing Olympics were held, and one of the great wonders of the world - the Great Wall. Furthermore, Peking University and Tsinghua University - both with more than 100 years of history - are also famous Beijing attractions.

* Note: Services, souvenirs, and food at tourist sites will be more expensive than in other locations. Only buy items after asking about the price.

Travel information
For booking plane tickets, train tickets and hotels, the Ctrip website and app is widely used in China. Train tickets booked online may be picked up at the on-campus China Post office at the Zhaolanyuan area by taking one's passport and showing the ticket booking number, or they can be collected directly from the tickets office counter at the train station. Please note: the first time train tickets are booked online requires the individual to collect their ticket from the train station. After this, they will be able to directly pick up train tickets from subsidiary ticket providers, such as the China Post office at Zhaolanyuan.
